Miss Blanche Booth
1319 Yale Place
Minneapolis Minn

Dear Miss Booth:

Thanks tremendously for your most interesting letter of several days ago. The letter, however, was not finished. Your last sentence was "The newspaper gentlemen have everywhere been so kind and helpful to me in my work - notably while I've been living in Minneapolis - reciting—" This is at the end of the page and we presume that you must have mislaid the other page or pages before enclosing them.

I am glad indeed to have the details of the manner in which both Mr Bates and the Minneapolis Daily Star made a mountain out of a mole hill. They both used you for corroboration of most anything they desired to say. Did you ever hear of the story about Ogarita Booth, who it is claimed was a daughter of John Wilkes Booth. I found a very interesting letter written by this woman to a Mrs Rogers in which she speaks of "Aunt Rosalie." This letter is in the files of the Harvard University Library. On the side is a notation in pencil - "Daughter of John Wilkes Booth."

With best wishes, we are

Very truly yours
