

Enid, Okla., Jan. 11, 1921.

On the morning of January 13, 1903, I was called by phone to the Grand Ave hotel run by S.S. Dumont, This was soon after I came down to the office. When I arrived at the hotel, I was taken to a hall bed room on the second floor, to a man who I realized was in the throes of death. In fact he died before I could get a hypodermic prepared. His death was caused by taken an over dose of styrchnine. I was informed that the man's name was George. He made no confession from the time I entered the room in fact he could not speak. The only other person in the room was a Mr. Lee Boyd, who lived at the same hotel.
