

John T. Ford, Owner Ford's Theater

TRIAL OF JOHN H SURREATT P 547. JULY 8. 1867

Testified that the hands of J.W. Booth were quite large, large enough to attract attention and to provoke remarks by himself and others. They were naturally large and were distended by exercise.

He had very glossy black hair. His complexion was rather dark, usually wore a mustache.

He talked a great deal - was a very interesting man in his conversation.

He had a large, thick, clumsy hand.

Booth was very fastidious in his dress.

His foot was large.
