

The Enid Daily Wave

Feb. 16, 1903

J. Wilkes Booth's Daughter.

Now comes a woman with a letter from New York to the Mayor of El Reno claiming to be the daughter of J. Wilkes Booth and that she believes the Enid suicide, George, is none other than her father, but she seemed to be more anxious as to any estate he may have left than as to the final disposition of her father's remains.