My Dear Mr. Black

The copies of your magazine I find contain the full story of the most important facts of that much discussed tragedy. My little book is from the same sources, except for some additional personal knowledge. Of those coming to the birthplace of the Booths

If you ever travel thro' Maryland, the Booth place is on the direct road between Washington and Phila. I would be pleased to have you see the house and my collection. I thank you indeed for the copies of the magazine, which I find full of valuable information on many other subjects, as well.

Yours sincerely
Ella V. Mahoney

to hear the story, there is the quaint architecture of the house, the antique furniture - much of it the Booths, the great collection of pictures and other interesting relics. To those who come with the old Ened story I show the pictures and handwriting. And if they like the weird, the pictures of that mummy would be thrilling.
